

The Federal Communication Commission should not overturn New Jersey's 'Do Not Call' law because it is working. Before the law went into effect, we received several calls each evening from telemarketers, disrupting both dinner and reading books to our children before bed. As a result, we have seen almost a 100% drop in unsolicited sales calls.

I understand that New Jersey's "Do Not Call" law is among the strictest in the country. Please do not let the telemarketers and other special interest groups succeed in disrupting our family time.

Thank you.
